ESTABLISHED JUNE FIFTH, NINETEEN HUNDRED

VOLUME XXV—NO. 172. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 27 1924 TWO CENTS

LARGEST BUSINESS IN ITS HISTORY

Postmaster S. D. R. Hill Informs Us That the Receipts, This Year, of the Charleroi Postoffice Exceed Those of 1923

THE AMOUNT IS $6,000

Office Will Be First-Class In July, 1925 — Automatically, Comes An Increase In Salary of the Postmaster And the Assistant Postmaster

Postmaster S. D. R. Hill informs us that the Charleroi postoffice recorded the largest business in its history this year. For example of the tremendous business enjoyed by Uncle Sam at the local postoffice, the receipts for the month of December exceeded those of 1923 by over $1,000, and the business of the office for the year of 1924, was $42,000, an increase of $6,000 over the year of 1923. The office, now a second class office, by virtue of its increased business, will, automatically, become a first class office, the same to become effective on July 1, 1925. Automatically, with the increased business, comes an increase in the salary of the postmaster of $200 per annum, and that of the assistant postmaster, $100 per annum.

As an example of the holiday rush Last Monday there was put through the cancellation machine 28,000 cancelled letter-size letters, first class mail. On the next day, 26,000 pieces of the same description. The best day for 1923 was 23,000 pieces, and the next best day, 18,000 pieces. These statistics or figures are not inclusive of the parcel post incoming, which required this year the services of four men and two vehicles going steadily 10 hours a day.

During the Christmas season just closed, Postmaster Hill desires, by this method, to voice his appreciation of the cooperation of the business men and the public in the transmission of mail; and he also appreciates the publicity of the Mail, which he says assisted very materially the force at the postoffice in that the public heeded the suggestions it made to "Shop Early," thereby minimizing the labors of Uncle Sam's people very materially.

Midshipman Day asked if he could get a ride and be landed in the vicinity of Washington. The aviator told him he could land at Moundsville, W. Va. They left the national capital at 1 o'clock and at 2:36 o'clock were in Moundsville. Midshipman Day then went by train to Washington, arriving there about 7 o'clock last evening. ASKS FOR A RIDE HOLDS UP DRIVER

A lone and well-dressed bandit, at the point of a pursuader in the shape of a revolver, compelled Christopher Winterbottom, driver for the Ward Baking Company, to give him a ride. The incident took place at Library Wednesday afternoon on the Library-Pittsburgh pike, near Red Tiles car stop, and the driver was relieved of $180, funds of the company.

Forcing the driver to hand over the day's receipts, the desperado handed back a $10 bill, told his victim to buy his wife a Christmas present [illegible] larger amount in a few days. Compelling Winterbottom to sit with his hands on the steering wheel, the bandit pocketed the gun, turned his back on the man, and walked jauntily to the car stop just as an interurban car was approaching and hopping aboard waved a "good-bye" to the driver. The highwayman told Winterbottom that he was a resident of Monongahela and expected to meet him there in a few days and return the loot. Winterbottom was unable to pursue the car but telephoned the police authorities along the car route and described the bandit, but as yet no arrest has been reported to the company. It is likely that the man alighted from the car near Library. While enroute, prior to the holdup, the bandit talked freely, explaining to the driver what a bountiful Christmas he would enjoy. As they approached Red Tiles, the desperado asked Winterbottom to stop and as he did so, the man drew a revolver and demanded the receipts.

SECOND GROWTH CHESTNUT TREES

Hazleton, December 27.—Farmers and woodsmen in this section report that a "second growth" of chestnut trees replacing those destroyed by the blight has reached the stage now where it can be expected that in a few years the native chestnut, with which the woods in this region once abounded, will be restored.

The new "stand" they claim is from eight to 15 feet high and is apparently unaffected by the blight which practically wiped out the chestnut trees in Pennsylvania.

MAN'S IDENTITY STILL MYSTERY

The identity of the man fatally burned Christmas night in a room of the Monessen House, 1136 Schoonmaker avenue, Monessen, when he fell asleep in bed with a lighted cigarette in his hand, and who died in the Monongahela hospital a few hours later, is still a mystery.

It was at first believed that a means of learning his identity had been found with the discovery of an envelope in his room bearing the name of Mrs. W. R. Farris of California. When police investigated it was learned that the man had been to California, and entering a barber shop had asked for a piece of paper to wrap a razor he was carrying. This envelope was handed to him. It has been learned, however, that the man was recently dismissed from the Columbia hospital, Wilkinsburg, and this may lead to knowledge of his relatives. The body has been removed to the undertaking establishment of Bebout and Yohe, Monongahela, and if nothing further can be learned of the case, the man will be buried at the expense of the county.

Cold Snap Scheduled to Hit Charleroi And Vicinity Tonight And Tomorrow —About 12 Above This Morning, But Tomorrow?

KEEP FURNACE BURNING

Borough And Contiguous Territory Among Coldest Places In the United States This Week —Snow On the Ground, But Not Enough to Make Sleighing

BULLETIN.

Washington, December 27.—A drop in temperature of at least 20 degrees tonight and tomorrow was forecasted for most of the Eastern states by the weather bureau today.

The cold wave which has enveloped the middle west for the past 24 hours is advancing on the east and cold wave signals have been ordered out by the bureau in all states except those of the South and Gulf region. These will receive freezing temperature, but without the sharp plunge of the thermometer scheduled in the North.

Charleroi and contiguous territory are enjoying a brief respite from the frigid atmosphere today, it only being about 12 above this morning. The walks are slippery, causing the utmost care to be taken by the pedestrians. This condition was brought about through virtue of the fact that it thawed sightly yesterday, despite the frigidity of the atmosphere.

But this warmer wave today is only a precursor for another cold wave, which is scheduled to hit Charleroi and its environs tonight and tomorrow. Then the mercury will start to drop once more. It will not be amiss to keep the furnace going at full speed, and the old hearthstone, for, according to the weather prognosticators, we are due for another cold wave coming to us from the northwest

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF RICH ORPHAN TO BE FATHOMED

Chicago, December 27. — Arrival here today of William D. Sheppard will give new impetus to the investigation of the death of William McClintock, "millionaire orphan." Sheppard, foster father of McClintock, is due this morning from Albuquerque, N. M., where he went on a visit with Mrs. Sheppard shortly after Billy died.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe wants to question Sheppard on his visits to a medical laboratory here in 1919 and 1920 while bacteria cultures were being made.

Crowe attaches much importance to information on these visits, given by F. T. Breidigan, formerly of the Illinois Research Laboratory, and now of the Battle Creek, Mich., sanitarium.

While employed here Breidigan said he was visited frequently in his laboratory by Sheppard at times in the company of a physician, and at other times alone.

These were all captured during the last few months. In fact 30 were seized during the last six weeks and of this number 15 were captured by Sergeant E. T. Cohee and county detectives since December 1.

A complete record is now kept of each car. This includes a description of its condition when captured, together with a list of all parts and accessories, the license number, engine and maker's numbers, owner's name and address, driver's name and address and passengers' names and addresses. Captured cars can now be removed only under bond and a checkup of their condition is made when returned.

The collection now includes many makes, such as Ford coupe, touring cars and trucks, Jewett, Jordon Buick, Peerless, Overland, Cleveland, Reo, Chevrolet, Dodge, Winton, Oldsmobile, Pittsburgh, Cadillac and Nash.

LOCAL FATALITIES.

The Mail is called upon from time to time to chronicle the particulars of local fatalities, but none of them have been more tragic, having within them more of pathos, than that by which Monessen young men lost their lives in an automobile accident.

We read of automobile accidents, and deaths untimely, by one means or another, in the daily press, and we peruse, absorb the facts as given, and turn to another column, unless, perchance, they be particularly appalling; but the emotional nature, the red to high ebb, usually only when tragedy knocks at our own doors.

In the case of the Monessen young men, bright, sterling, active, promising manhood, just embarking on the voyage of life, with eager winds kissing every sail, how sad seems their passing, and our hearts beat in unison with those who are so deeply bereaved. For, after all, how impartial and unsparing, is the grim claimant of our mortality!

Nipped in the opening bloom of outh, they have found serenity in leath.

These young men were in the bloom of health, with so much to live for, ome, family, ties, friends, their future seemed roseate, and they were ooking forward to the tomorrow, with joy in their hearts, and the mantle of hope standing out clearly n their faces. They were about to xtend Christmas greetings, when the and of Fate intervened, and the joys f their Yuletide was silenced in the hamber of death. What a terrible hristmas and holiday season for hose of their kin bereft of their love, heir sympathy, their friendship; and hile expressing, in common with thers, our sympathy and condolence, e can but recommend them in grief o poignant, to that source from hom all our joys and sorrows emante.

OWNERS SLOW IN APPLYING FOR THEIR 1925 TAGS

Harrisburg, Dec. 27.— Less than half of the motor vehicle owners of Pennsylvania have applied for their 1925 license tags up to yesterday, according to official information from the Motor Vehicle division of the Highway department. This fact will probably spell trouble for many motorists after January 1 as Registrar Benjamin G. Eynon says there will positively be no extension of time this year because of the ample warnings that have been given the public.

The Pennsylvania Motor Federation has sent out a warning to the 100,000 members of the organization that any motorist who drives a car with 1924 tags after midnight of December 31 will run the risk of arrest and the payment of a penalty of from $10 to $25 and costs amounting to $2.50 more.

The warning is justified by the fact that the Highway department has not only instructed the State Police and the Highway Patrol to make such arrests, but has also asked the cooperation of all police throughout the state.

Extension of time on foreign tags, upon request of the authorities of the states involved have been granted in the following cases: Michigan, until March 1; Virginia, [illegible] Delaware, until January 5.

"BROWNIE" GESSLER IS DEAD IN THE CITY OF GREENSBURG

Dr. H. H. (Brownie) Gessler, former major league ball player and one time manager of the Pittsburgh Federal League club died at Greensburg Wednesday night after a long illness. He was 44 years old the day he died, and his many friends throughout the greater Pittsburgh district will be shocked to hear the news. He was the son of W. S. Gessler of Indiana, Pa. His parents are living, and the funeral will be held Sunday.

Brownie Gessler began his baseball career at Greensburg High school. Later he attended Mercersburg Academy and after his graduation studied medicine at Ohio University, but left college to play for Punxsutawney in the Oil and Gas League, where he attracted the attention of Eastern League scouts and was grabbed by the Jersey City club in 1902.

Detroit bought Gessler in 1903 and played him in the outfield until July, when he was purchased by the Brooklyn Dodgers, with which club he was a member during the seasons of 1903, 1904 and 1905, but during the fag end of the 1905 season Gessler was traded to the Chicago Cubs for Pitcher Oscar Knowles.

It was during the 1905 season that Brooklyn brought Gessler in from the outfield and used him on first base. He was with the Cubs until 1907 when they sent him to Columbus of the American Association, but he played in that minor circuit but one season, being claimed by the Boston Redsox in 1908.

NEGRO PROVES POOR OPPONENT FOR NEW KNOCKOUT ARTIST

In less than two rounds the crunching power of Paul Berlenbach's mitts drove Larry Estridge into a corner and beat him unconscious in New York last night. The reformed Olympic wrestler, now grown to light-heavyweight stature, beat the Negro to the floor for a count of nine in the first time that Estridge squared his feet and tried to make a stand.

The finish was as brutal as any episode that has come to pass in the Gotham ring. Estridge, an ex-soldier, got his legs under him at the count of nine and slid along the ropes a couple of feet to the angle of the ropes at his own corner.

He stood there held up by instinct. He simply didn't know the score. His hands were down. He seemed to think that the round had ended and to be waiting for his seconds to slide the chair under him. Berlenbach hesitated, not wanting to assault a defenseless man. Jack O'Sullivan, the referee, ordered him to go ahead and finish it. At that Berlenbach's huge legs scissored slowly across the rumbling planks of the ring, he cocked his left and brought it up in a hook to the chin that landed with sickening violence. Estridge's head snapped back so far that his skull almost hit his spine. He began to sway and O'Sullivan then stopped it to avoid manslaughter.

AUTO DEATH RATE IS VERY HIGH IN CITY OF ERIE

Harrisburg, Dec. 27.—The city of Erie has the highest automobile death rate per 100,000 population of the 58 largest cities of the country. The Erie death toll was 36.4 for 1923.

Scranton stands tenth on the list with a toll of 24.9. Other Pennsylvania cities recorded in the list were: Pittsburgh 23; Reading 22.5, and Philadelphia 15.8.

In cities of less than 100,000 Easton was first in the state with a toll of 47.6.

These figures were made public in a comparative study by the National Safety Council embracing accidental deaths in 142 cities of the United States. The highest death tolls appear in cities of less than 100,000 where there are proportionately more cars.

The report shows Americans suffered from twice as many fatal accidents of all kinds as the British, comparatively speaking. While there are many more automobiles in this country, this fact fails to account for the excess in other types of accidents, according to the survey.

The [illegible] dent ratio in this country, according to Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and chairman of the committee making the above report is "carelessness, apathy and deficient knowledge."
